STATE OF MICHIGAN, }
ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
Lansing, December 31, 1876. }

To the Honorable the Governor and the Legislature of the State of Michigan:

I have the honor herewith to submit the annual report of this office, commencing on the first day of January, 1876, and ending this day, including a period of twelve months.

At the January term of the Supreme Court the case of the People vs. Walter Clark, which had been argued and submitted at the June term of said Court, was decided. Clark was convicted in the Calhoun Circuit of the crime of seduction. A bill of exceptions was taken and the case brought to the Supreme Court. The information contained three counts. The prosecution on the trial below were permitted to prove three distinct acts of seduction. This was held by the Supreme Court to be error. The defense on the trial below offered evidence to show a conspiracy between complainant, her father and mother to inveigle defendant into a marriage with complainant, and failing in this to prosecute him. This testimony was rejected and the Supreme Court held it should have been admitted. For these and other errors on the trial below the conviction was set aside and a new trial granted.

At the same term the case of William Weaver vs. The People was argued, submitted and decided. The plaintiff in error was arrested on the fourth of March, 1874, on complaint of one Ralph Lee, for malicious injury to a building on the 8th day of July, 1874. He plead guilty to said offense in Van Buren Circuit Court. The regular Circuit Judge suspended sentence and released the prisoner on his own recognizance of one hundred dollars to appear at the next October term of said Court. The recognizance was not estreated, and Weaver was allowed to remain at liberty until October term, 1875, when he was called up for sentence by a judge of another circuit sitting temporarily in Van Buren Circuit and sentenced to two years and six months in the State Prison. The court held that the failure to take steps to sentence the prisoner at the October term, 1874, under the circumstances, was a practical abandonment of the prosecution, and raises the presumption that the trial judge so understood it when he released him on his own recognizance in a nominal sum; that to sentence a prisoner to State Prison when the trial judge has distinctly said he ought not to be so sentenced is not supplying his omissions, but is overruling his decisions; that this was inadmissible, and they discharged the prisoner.

At the same term of said court the case of John D. Wright vs. The People was argued, submitted, and decided. The plaintiff in error was, on the fifth day of November, 1874, convicted of an assault with intent to murder one William Wagner in the St. Clair Circuit. When the jury came into court they handed the clerk a paper which was signed by all the jurors, as follows: "We find the prisoner, John D. Wright, guilty of an assault with intent to kill William Wagner, as charged in the information; also that the shooting done by Wright was done under great provocation, and we recommend him to the mercy of the court." Although the usual verdict under the direction of the Circuit Court was entered, yet the Supreme court held that the written finding of the jury must control under the circumstances as to what their real verdict was; that there is no such offense under our statute as an assault with intent to kill; that the written finding could not be construed to be anything more than finding defendant guilty of an assault and battery, and that the sentence was not one authorized by the statute. The judgment was therefore reversed, and the prisoner discharged.

At the same term of the court the case of Joseph A. Kurtz vs. The People, error from the Recorder's Court of Detroit, was argued, submitted, and decided. The plaintiff in error was convicted in the Recorder's court of Detroit for keeping open his saloon on Sunday for the sale of intoxicating liquors at retail, and of selling liquors at retail on that day. The act under which the plaintiff in error was convicted was an act entitled, "An act to prevent the sale or delivery of intoxicating liquors, wine, and beer to minors and to drunken persons, and to provide a remedy against persons selling liquor to husbands or children in certain cases."—Sess. Laws of 1875, page 283. It was contended by the plaintiff in error that the act above referred to, or so much of it as refers to the closing of saloons, bar-rooms, etc., is in conflict with Sec. 20, Art. four of the Constitution of the State, which provides that no law shall embrace more than one object, which shall be expressed in its title. It was contended by the plaintiff in error that the title of the act was not broad enough to cover the section above referred to; that the closing of the saloon would prohibit the sale of liquors to others not mentioned in the title of the act, and was therefore void; and that the law so construed would be a law to enforce the proper observance of Sunday, and that no such purpose is disclosed in the title. On the part of the people it was contended that the primary object of the law was to prevent the sale of liquors on Sunday to minors and drunkards; that if the closing of saloons on Sunday had a tendency to lessen the chances for minors and drunkards to get liquor it could be no objection to the law that the effect of the law might be to some extent to enforce an observance of the Sabbath; that drinking men were more likely to congregate on Sunday and drink than on any other day, and that the closing of the saloons on that day would materially lessen their chances to obtain intoxicating liquors. The court held the law to be constitutional, and affirmed the judgment.

At the same term the case of Albert Turner vs. The People was argued and submitted, and was decided at the April term, 1876. The plaintiff in error was convicted in the county of Huron of the crime of rape. On arraignment of the prisoner in this case in the court below the respondent moved to quash the information on the grounds, first, that he had not been examined nor waived an examination on the specific charge set out in the information; and second, that there had been no finding by an examining officer that the offense described had been committed, nor any finding or adjudication that the respondent was guilty of such offense. The court held, first, that under the statute no record of specific finding one way or the other is required to be kept by the justice or certified to the court, but that if it appears to the examining officer that an offense not cognizable by him has been committed, and there is probable cause to believe the accused guilty, it is his duty to hold him for trial in the Circuit Court; and second, that where the complaint concerns an offense not triable by a justice, it is not required to set out in formal and distinct terms the precise criminal act to be inquired into and prosecuted; third, that if there had been no preliminary examination then it was not competent to file an information, and that to ascertain whether there had been such examination resort can only be had to the return of the magistrate or the evidence filed in the case. The court held that the prisoner had been examined on the charge, and affirmed the judgment.

At the same term of the court the case of William Campbell vs. The People was argued and submitted, but was not decided until the June term of said court. Campbell was convicted of an assault with intent to ravish, upon an information charging him with the crime of rape. One ground of error assigned is that the information does not support the conviction. The court held that under an information charging a specific offense it is competent for the jury to find the respondent guilty of a lesser offense included in it, and that the lesser offense of felonious assault is necessarily included in the offense of rape. Objection was taken in the Supreme Court to the reception in evidence to the return of the justice before whom the prisoner had his preliminary examination. Held, that as no objection was taken in the court below it is too late to assign error now. The judgment was affirmed.

At the April term of said court the case of The People vs. Mott was argued, submitted and decided. Mott was convicted in the Lapeer Circuit with having obtained the promissory note of one Robert Smith under false pretenses. It was also charged that the note was obtained for sixty dollars by falsely reading the note thirty dollars to complainant, who could not read. The defendant objected to the second branch of the statute (Compiled Laws, § 7950), which relates to the descriptive obtaining of one's signature to a written instrument because the word falsely is not contained in the description of the offense. The court held that this point was not well taken, because the first branch of the section, which contains the falsity of the fraud, applies to the second. The defendant also contended that the information charged no offense, because the facts set forth showed that he had done nothing to make him liable for forgery. The court held that the statute does not confound this offense with forgery, but only refers to that offense to distinguish the class of instruments in regard to which this offense may be committed. The exceptions were overruled and judgment ordered.

At the same term the case of The Attorney General vs. The Board of Supervisors of Bay County was argued and decided. In this case a bill was filed to prevent the issue of bonds for a loan of eighteen thousand dollars voted by the Board of Supervisors of Bay county. The resolution provided for raising eighteen thousand dollars for roads and bridges and to be divided amongst the towns (naming them), and provided for the several appropriations to be expended under the supervision of the supervisor of each town. The court held that the county board could have no occasion to raise money for other than its own roads, and must exercise its own judgment in expending it, and that the resolution providing for raising money to be paid over to the towns without any definite purpose, and to be expended under the direction of town officers, was a plain violation of law. The decree of the court below was affirmed.

At the same term the case of the Auditor General vs. The Pullman Palace Car Company was argued and decided. Proceedings were taken by the Auditor General against the Pullman Palace Car Company for the payment of certain specific taxes. The company appealed from the assessment in the Ingham Circuit Court. The case was taken to the Supreme Court on writ of error. The proceedings were taken under Act No. 57 of the Laws of 1872. The Supreme Court held that the writ of error in this case must be dismissed for want of jurisdiction; that the proceedings under the statute were not intended to be judicial in the proper sense of the term, but that the statute was intended to make the Circuit Court an appellate tax tribunal, and that its conclusions would not be a judgment, but an assessment. Writ dismissed.

At the June term of said court the case of The People vs. John Brown was argued and decided. Brown was convicted in the Recorder's Court of the city of Detroit of the crime of bigamy, and was brought to the Supreme Court on exceptions. Brown is a negro and was previously married to one of his own color, and the woman he last married is white. The plaintiff in error claimed that marriages between white and colored persons being prohibited by our statute, the defendant could not be convicted of bigamy, because the second marriage would have been illegal if the party had not been married before. The court held that the point was not well taken; that it is not essential there should be anything of binding force about the second marriage, because every bigamous marriage is void; that entering into a void marriage while a valid one exists constitutes the offense; that a party could not be released from the violation of one statute because in so doing he violated another. The exceptions were overruled, and judgment ordered on the verdict.

At the same term of the court the case of Rodney Rogers from St. Clair county was argued and decided. Rogers was convicted of the crime of rape upon the person of one Rachael Batton. On her direct examination she stated that she related part of the transaction to Mrs. Welch, at whose house she went immediately after it occurred, and that she afterwards stated the whole of it to Mr. Welch, and went before the justice and stated it. On cross-examination she was asked if she told the whole voluntarily, or whether others came and asked her about it; and also whether she prosecuted the defendant voluntarily, or if she was put up to it by some one else. This was excluded upon objections from the prosecution. The Supreme Court held that the questions should have been permitted, and for that error reversed the judgment and granted a new trial.

At the same term of the court the case of Charles Dalrymple vs. The People was argued and decided. Dalrymple was convicted of the crime of larceny in the Circuit Court for the county of Kent, March 5, 1874. Ten days was given him to move for a new trial or file a bill of exceptions. Whether any such motion was ever made or not does not appear; but on the ninth day following the respondent appeared in open court and entered into a recognizance to keep the peace. Two years afterwards he was informed against for larceny again, and without any trial of the latter case the court sentenced him upon the conviction of March, 1874. The Supreme Court held that the Circuit Court had lost jurisdiction of the case, set aside the judgment, and ordered the prisoner discharged.

At the same term of the court the case of George W. Yaner was argued and submitted, but was not decided till the October term.

At the October term of said court the case of G. W. Yaner was decided. Yaner was informed against in the Circuit Court for the county of Ionia for the crime of murder, and on the trial was convicted of manslaughter and was sentenced to seven years in State Prison, and the case was taken by writ of error to the Supreme Court. After the filing of the information and before any plea was entered the respondent moved to quash the information for numerous reasons, amongst others, on the ground that the magistrate before whom he was examined refused to decide whether the facts proven on the examination amounted to the crime of murder or manslaughter. The justice certified to the court that he did refuse so to find, holding that that was a fact for the jury to determine. The Supreme Court held that as one offense was bailable and the other not, it was the duty of the magistrate to certify for which of the offenses he held him for trial, and for this reason they reversed the judgment and ordered the prisoner discharged.

At the same term of the court the case of The People vs. Marion Jacobs was tried and decided. Jacobs was convicted in the Circuit Court of St. Joseph county for the offense of getting money under false pretenses. The Supreme Court held that some of the charges of the court to the jury were erroneous and set aside the verdict for such errors and ordered a new trial.

At the same term of the court the case of Emery Nye vs. The People was argued and decided. Nye was convicted in the Circuit Court for the county of Calhoun of the crime of murder in the first degree. The case was a very lengthy one, containing forty-one assignments of error, being too lengthy to attempt to give any detailed statement of the case in a report like this. The judgment was reversed for some misdirections in the judge's charge and a new trial ordered.

At the same term of the court an order was made requiring the Military Board of the State of Michigan to show cause why they should not audit the claim of Friend Palmer for services in collecting money from the United States furnished by the State of Michigan for the government in equipping troops in said State. The claim had been presented to the Military Board and I appeared for the State and objected to the jurisdiction of that board, claiming that if Palmer had any claim it should be audited by the Board of State Auditors. The Military Board decided they had no jurisdiction, and Palmer applied to the Supreme Court for a mandamus to compel them to audit the claim. The Supreme Court sustained my views of the law and refused the mandamus.

The Auditor General applied to the Supreme Court for an order requiring the Board of Supervisors of Monroe county to show cause why a mandamus should not issue to compel them to spread upon the assessment rolls of their county about thirty-four thousand dollars which it is claimed by the State is due from said county. The pleading had been filed and the case will be ready at the January term of 1877.

I have commenced four suits in the Circuit Court for the county of Ingham, in chancery. One against Edward E. Buckley, Charles F. Ruggles, and Daniel D. Ruggles. One against James Raulins, Charles F. Ruggles, and Daniel D. Ruggles. One against Edward McLaughlin, Charles F. Ruggles, and Daniel D. Ruggles. And one against John M. Dennett, Charles F. Ruggles, and Daniel D. Ruggles. These suits were all brought for the purpose of setting aside and canceling certain certificates of purchase of Agricultural College lands claimed to have been fraudulently obtained. The cases are not yet decided. They will probably go to the Supreme Court.

The People vs. Alexander Gibson, Nicholas Coombs, and others, was a suit on the bonds of the Treasurer of Keweenaw county. It was tried in said county on the 17th of September last, and the court took the case under advisement. Chandler & Grant of Houghton appeared for the people.

The People vs. Seth Reese, Jacob Young, Oscar J. Foot, and C. D. Sheldon. This was a suit upon the bonds of the Treasurer of Houghton county, and was tried Oct. 2, 1876, and judgment rendered in favor of the people for five thousand three hundred and fifty dollars and thirty-one cents. Chandler & Grant of Houghton appeared for the people. The money has not been paid, and I have directed that execution be issued immediately upon the judgment.

The Merchants' Dispatch Company failed to pay their specific tax or make any return. The Auditor General assessed them and issued his warrant to Sexton, Sheriff of Wayne county, and the company paid the assessment under protest and then sued the sheriff for the money, amounting to about eleven hundred dollars, in the United States Court. The cause is still pending, not having yet been tried. The State agreed with the sheriff to indemnify him, and are defending the suit.

A number of cases have been commenced in different parts of the State, being applications for quo warranto informations and other writs conducted by private counsel,—cases in which the State has no direct interest.

There has also been a number of cases commenced in the different courts of the State against the Auditor General and others to restrain the collection of taxes, which cases I have referred to the Prosecuting Attorneys of the different counties.

I now desire to call your attention to some laws which I think should be amended or repealed.

Act No. 168 of the Session Laws of 1873, which provides that any person acquitted of certain crimes because of insanity shall be confined in the insane hospital connected with the State prison at Jackson has been declared by the Supreme court to be unconstitutional, because it provides no way for the release of the prisoner if he regains his reason. This act should be so amended as to conform to the Constitution, or else be repealed. Act No. 57 of the Session Laws of 1872, and Act No. 173 of the Session Laws of 1873, in relation to specific taxes upon transportation companies should be amended. The law provides that if the corporations fail to make a report as required by law, upon which specific tax is due, the Auditor General is to estimate the amount due and issue his warrant therefor, and that the company may appeal to the Circuit Court from said amount. In the Pullman Palace Car Company the Supreme Court decided that the Circuit Court had no authority to enter a judicial judgment; that the proceedings under the statute were evidently not intended to be judicial in the proper sense of that term, but that the statute was evidently designed to make the Circuit Court an appellate tax tribunal and nothing more, and that its conclusions would not be a judgment, but only an assessment; and as the law now stands there are no provisions for collecting that assessment. Act No. 181 of the Session Laws of 1873 in my opinion ought to be repealed. That act provides that the Auditor General shall not cancel the taxes assessed and levied on any lands heretofore granted in aid of the construction of certain railroads in this State, and commonly called railroad lands, and that have been patented to or earned by certain railroad companies commonly called land-grant railroad companies, unless upon the order or decree of the Supreme Court of this State. The question arises under that act whether the Auditor General can charge back to a county taxes which have been declared null and void and decreed to be canceled and set aside by a Circuit Court. If he cannot, then the Auditor General will be under the necessity of appealing all such cases to the Supreme Court to get a decree from that court canceling said taxes (in other words appeal the case to get the decree affirmed instead of reversed), although fully convinced of the correctness of the decision of the Circuit Court. The act is entirely useless and calculated to lead to litigation, and is a discrimination in favor of land-grant companies that ought not to be permitted. There is no reason why the Auditor General may not cancel taxes of this kind the same as any other taxes.

Several amendments should be made to acts No. 228 and 231 of the Session Laws of 1875. The first being an act for the taxation of the business of manufacturing and selling spirituous and intoxicating, malt, brewed or fermented liquors, and the second being an act to prevent the sale or delivery of intoxicating liquors, wine, or beer, to minors and to drunken persons and to habitual drunkards. Section 12 of Act 228 provides that the assessors shall add to these rolls such persons as are found in the business of manufacturing or selling after the time of the annual assessment and assess them pro rata for the unexpired portion of such year. The law fixes no time for the commencement of the year for this purpose. I have given it as my opinion that for this purpose the year commences the first Monday of June, that being the time the law says the taxes shall be due and payable; but it would be better to have the time fixed by the law. Section 15 of said act provides that any officer willfully neglecting or refusing to perform his duty under the provisions of this act shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each and every offense. And any person liable to pay a tax and neglecting or refusing to pay, etc., shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished, etc. But there is no person or officer whose duty it is to prosecute the officers liable to a penalty or the person guilty of a misdemeanor according to the provisions of this section. There is much complaint from different parts of the State that persons are selling liquors without paying any tax, and unless some measures are taken to enforce the law it will become inoperative for want of enforcement. It was thought at first that if one man paid a tax in a village or city he would see that the others did, but this proves not to be the case. It should therefore be made the special duty of the prosecuting attorney or some other officer to prosecute such persons, and he should be liable to a fine and also removal from office for a neglect of his duty. And it should be the privilege of any citizen of the county to make complaint against him to compel him to perform his duty.

Section 9 of said act provides that upon the receipt of the warrant the sheriff shall proceed immediately to collect the same; but no time is fixed when he shall sell the property or return his execution. I think he should be compelled to return his execution within a given time, so that it might be known whether he was doing his duty or not.

Act No. 231 should be amended, in my opinion, by striking out of section one the words (unless otherwise determined and directed by the board of trustees or common council of the village or city where such saloons, restaurants, bars, bar-rooms are kept); and that said act should further be amended by prohibiting entirely the sale of such liquors on all election days. The same provisions should be made for the enforcement of this law as of Act No. 228. The person from whom liquor is obtained by false pretenses should be compelled to prosecute such person obtaining liquor by false pretenses under penalty of forfeiting his tax paid by him; in other words, be compelled to prosecute or else quit selling. There is a great deal of selling to persons known to be minors or drunkards, and some measures should be taken to prevent it. There should be a penalty provided for giving intoxicating liquors to a minor or a person in the habit of getting intoxicated. There is now no penalty for giving liquor to a minor; therefore a person of lawful age may purchase liquor and give it to a minor or one in the habit of getting drunk, so that it is easy for such persons to obtain liquor when they desire it; they furnish money for others to buy with and then give to them. It is true that the bond requires him not to give to a minor, but he can sell to adults and they can give to minors. Some provision should be made to prevent this.

There is also a great deal of liquor sold by druggists and used as a beverage under pretense that it is for medical purposes, when the druggist is fully satisfied it is not designed for medicine at all. I think they should only be permitted to sell liquors on the prescription of a physician or else pay a tax the same as others.

The law in most places has worked well. In some places it has reduced the number of saloons and it has produced considerable of revenue, but unless some more effectual measures are taken to enforce the law it will eventually be disregarded and not enforced.

The abstracts of reports of Prosecuting Attorneys will be published with this report as soon as received.
